

ABSTRACT

Cosmetic and skin care products are dispersed or encapsulated within a polymer matrix to provide a convenient means of storing and transporting the cosmetic or skin care product prior to use. Prior to use the polymer matrix is solubilized or melted to release the cosmetic or skin care product to the user's skin.